nginx: "/root/index.html" forbidden (13: Permission denied)

Вопрос   Лучший ответ   Ещё 2 ответа

Oh! Please don't disable SELinux.

First — do you really need to serve files from `/root`? That's actually the home directory for the root user, not meant to be the web root. This is actually a very bad idea. Instead, use `/var/www/html` or (my preference) `/srv/www`. If you do use `/root`, make sure you're not exposing ssh keys or `authorized_keys` files, database passwords, or anything similar. It's really just a bad idea all around.

nginx error in linux: 403 forbidden (13: Permission denied) programmersought.com › article/71993599112/
It is found that there are usually three situations that cause nginx 403 forbidden: lack of index files, permission problems, and SELinux status. As for the first two, I definitely do n't have this problem anymore, because the permission problem can be ruled out. Читать ещё
